

Alexandria Gazette.

TUESDAY EVENING MAY 2 1893.

SWEETS TO THE SWEET.—Individualism, which obtains in all matters of dress, has found its way into the realm of scents, and certain perfumes have become associated with certain ladies, as in the instance of "Diplomacy," but no one knows quite what the perfumes are, for fear of imitators. Indeed, so subtly sweet and intangible are the odors affected by one belle, says the "New York Sun," that she is accused of having a "private still." Another fancy is to combine the scent of a flower with the gown which reproduces its tints, and in accordance with this a novel violet gown has sachets of violet powder in the hem and inside the bodice, and is folded away in wrappings sprayed with the perfume of the flower. Another woman fond of Japanese crepes and silks goes in for Hase-no-hand, and since the mention in an African romance of the sacred African lily the perfume of that flower has been quite in favor with a clique of the author's friends. The perfume of the Datura, or Indian thorn apple, is the rage in Paris. It is only the faintest of sweet odors that are employed, and they emanate from all the folds of the garments, leaving a delicate trail of fragrance when the wearer passes or moves.
